Art. 403. C.S.R. seems to be the provision referred to by the Military Secy Subd.

DMB 22-6-15 Nov 5 The list of Officers given in article 403 C.S.R makes it clear that the experts ~~referred to~~ for whom the Govt of India show the concession appears to are of a different class altogether to the Syces & Coachmen. Pension is defined pay and unless one actually serves Govt he cannot lay claim either to this one or the other & it is therefore not expedient to add on to one's pensionable service some period during which he has not actually served Govt.

I think that the proposal of the Military Secy should not be sanctioned. The rule in the C.S.R. referred to by the Military Secy applies to such appointments as Presidency Magistrates & Small cause court Judges and not to Bijees & cooks. In fact such menials are generally entertained on non-pensionable footing in British India. Here in the first place we have made it applicable & in the second place have in some cases relaxed the rule regarding age limit & Now it is proposed to go further and add five years to their qualifying service! We have treated these menials liberally enough in the matter of pension & further concessions are neither called for nor reasonable.

I quite agree

Sir,

With refce to the latter portion of your note No 179 dt: 24-6-1912 to the Secretariat wherein you suggest that a rule like the one in art: 403 of the British India C.S. Regulations, under which 5 years' Service is added to all experts entertained in Govt Service may be included in the M.S.R. and that coachmen, carpenters, butlers, Smiths

SUBJECT.

Smiths, fitters etc shall be regarded as experts for the purpose of such a rule, I am directed to state that the rule in the C.S.R referred to by you applies to such appointments as Presidency Magistrates and Small Cause Court Judges and not to the class of men refd to by you whose services are as a matter of fact generally treated as non-pensionable in British India.
Govt consider that treating their Service as pensionable is itself a liberal concession and further concessions as suggested by you are not called for nor reasonable.
